

The Bloomfield Record.

A Thrilling Affair.

Last Saturday, says the Haudsboro (Miss.) Democrat, about sundown, four miles east of this place, on Biloxi Bay, occurred a scene calculated to send a thrill of horror through every human heart, and to make even the boldest tremble with fear. Two little girls, daughters of Mr. E. R. Blackwell, living on the back Bay of Biloxi, while bathing in the bay in front of his dwelling, were attacked by an enormous alligator. The eldest, a girl of about seven years of age, was holding the youngest, an infant of 2 years, in her hands, and was quietly enjoying her bath, when suddenly her little sister was snatched from her and borne swiftly from the shore. Terrified beyond measure, and unable to render any assistance to her unfortunate sister, the elder girl uttered a scream, which was caught by the ear of the father, who happened accidentally to be passing within 30 or 40 yards of the spot where his daughters were bathing. R-azing instantly, from the tone of the voice, that his children were in some peril, but unable to conjecture its exact nature, Mr. Blackwell, who is an active and athletic man, rushed rapidly to their assistance, and arrived at the spot just in time to discover his little daughter being borne out into the bay by an alligator. Comprehending the scene at once, and nervous to almost superhuman effort by the desperate situation of his child, the ag-onized father leaped madly into the water in pursuit of the would-be destroyer of his daughter, which was then some 25 or 30 yards from shore. The father, for a distance of 40 or 50 yards out into the bay from the point where the children were bathing, ranges in depth from 1 1/2 to 2 feet, and then suddenly attains the depth of 40 or 50 feet, and both the animal (which by this time had discovered the pursuit) and the father seemed to realize that the deep water immediately in front of them once reached, pursuit and recovery would alike be impossible; both, therefore, redoubled their efforts, the one to reach the point the other to prevent it. In this struggle, although sinking in his waist in the soft mud at the bottom at each bound, the father was successful. He succeeded in grasping his child by the arm about 10 feet from deep water. The alligator, which all the while held the child's foot in its mouth, perceiving itself overtaken, and alarmed and confused by the boldness of the assault, released its hold and made its way rapidly into the deep water in front of it. The father, completely exhausted, raised his child out of the water, and, perceiving that it still lived, by desperate effort succeeded in regaining the shore and depositing the child safely in the arms of its mother. The little girl is now with the exception of a couple of bruises on its foot, made by the teeth of the monster.

Frightening A Burglar.

The St. Louis Republican, says: One of the best incidents of a burglar season, an incident which occurred early in July, now sees the light for the first time. The heroine of the affair is a young lady well known in society, and but for the modest reticence shown by this young lady and a young miss, her companion on the occasion mentioned, the two would ever have been widely known for the courage and ingenuity displayed under trying circumstances. It is not permissible even now to give names, but the account is a true one in every particular.

A Little Chinese Girl about eight years old, and born in California, has been admitted to one of the primary schools of the city of Sacramento.

Application for her admission was made in the usual way to the Superintendent of Public Schools, but he referred the matter to the Board of Education. This is the first time that a Chinese parent has made application for the admission of a child to the public school.

ALARMING SINS.—If I were called to point out the most alarming sins to-day—those which are most de-cise in their influence, and most soul-destroying in their ultimate effects—I would not mention drunkenness with all its fearful havoc, nor gambling with its crazed victims, nor harlotry, with its hellish orgies; but the love of money on the part of men, and the love of display on the part of women. While open vice sends its thousands, these fashionable and favored indulgences send their ten thousands to perdition. They sear the conscience, incurst the soul with an impenetrable shell of worldliness, debase the affections from every high and heavenly object, and make man or woman the worshipers of self. While doing all this, the poor victim is allowed by public opinion to think himself or herself a Christian; while the drunkard, the gambler or the prostitute is not deceived by such a thought for a moment.—Dr. Crosby.

A MAN WHO DIDN'T OVERESTIMATE HIMSELF.—A Hebrew merchant from a Western city went into one of our large wholesale houses, the other day, and said he wished to buy about $1,400 worth of goods. He was willing to pay $1,200 cash, and give his note for ninety days for the rest of the bill. The firm looked up the house which the customer represented, and came to the conclusion that his note wouldn't be of much value. They concluded, however, to sell him the goods he desired, making a sufficient advance in the usual price to cover the amount of the note. The sale was made, and the bill amounted to $1,420. The purchaser paid the $1,200, and drew his note for the remainder.

"Now, mine friends," said he, "I want you to give me von present. I always has a present after so big a bill."

"Well," replied the merchant, "we can't give you much of a present, but you can pick out a necktie for yourself, if you wish."

"No no. I want no neckties. I want no neckties. I want a silk dress for mine wife."

"O, we can't do that," said the merchant; "but I'll tell you what we will do. We will give you your note."

"My note! No, py my gracious! I takeze necktie!"

The compulsory school law, now in full force in the State of New Jersey, requires parents and guardians who have children under eighteen and over five years of age under their supervision, to send said children to school at least twelve weeks each school year. Those who do not comply with these requirements will be compelled to pay a fine of $25 for each offense.
